Regional Leadership Mission to Charlotte

Wednesday, January 14, 2009

Jacob Stuart, President, Central Florida Partnership, welcomes Civic, Business, and Government Leaders to SunRail Celebration hosted by myregion.org (Upper Left); Orlando Mayor Buddy Dyer, Chairman, Central Florida Commuter Rail Commission, greets members of the Media before departure to Charlotte, North Carolina (Upper Right); Orlando Mayor Buddy Dyer and Patricia J. Engler, Chair, Central Florida Partnership, General Manager, Hyatt Regency Orlando International Airport, arrive in Charlotte (Lower Left); One of several Train Stations supporting Charlotte Area Transit System (CATS) (Lower Right).

Central Florida Partnership

Enjoys Great Success and Celebration for SunRail

About 200 people gathered at the Hyatt Regency Orlando International Airport to celebrate the unveiling of the official logo and website of SunRail, Central Florida's planned 61.5-mile commuter rail project linking Volusia, Seminole, Orange and Osceola counties. The celebration culminated more than three months of research and community outreach conducted by myregion.org to lay the foundation for selection of a name and logo for the project the region's top transportation priority.

"This is a true, community-led effort that will provide Central Floridians with a badly needed mass transit alternative to their cars and help stimulate our local economy," said Orlando Mayor Buddy Dyer, Chairman of the Central Florida Commuter Rail Commission.

At the event, FDOT District 5 Secretary Noranne Downs presented plaques to two Florida Department of Transportation workers, Megan Reinhart and Larry Wynn, and to Micki Meyer, Leadership Orlando Class 67 graduate and Director of Community Engagement at Rollins College. The three submitted the SunRail name or iterations thereof, for community consideration. "SunRail is quintessential Florida," said Secretary Downs. "The name and logo highlight our great outdoors, our wonderful weather and our environmental conscience."

Mayor Dyer and Secretary Downs were joined at the celebration by members of the Central Florida Commuter Rail Commission, as well as government, business and civic leaders and citizens from throughout the region who participated in community outreach efforts.

In all, more than 3,000 residents in the seven-county Central Florida region took part in development of the SunRail name and logo. Additionally, more than 400 unique names were submitted via a series of community meetings, Florida Department of Transportation employee outreach, the project website and the myregion.org group on Facebook. SunRail emerged overwhelmingly as the "people's choice." The name and logo were ratified by the Central Florida Commuter Rail Commission at a meeting December 19, 2008.

The SunRail logo, designed by Jim Bockstall of Bockstall Design Associates in Lake Mary, will be incorporated into station designs and public involvement materials, as well as serve as the basis for eventual color schemes on the trains. Additionally, a new website, www.sunrail.com, was launched to provide the latest information available about SunRail – from station designs to project timetables to potential economic development opportunities. Visitors to the previous project website, www.cfrail.com, will automatically be redirected to the new site.

Following the celebration, a group of more than 130 Central Florida government, business and civic leaders; including more than 70 members of Leadership Orlando (Class 76), traveled to Charlotte, North Carolina, on a Regional Leadership Mission hosted and funded by the Central Florida Partnership. (Want to know more about the Central Florida Partnership? Just "click" here www.ideastoresults.org.) The group rode the city's new 9.6-mile light rail train, the Lynx Blue Line, which has proven to be an important stimulus to their regional economy, generating $1.86 billion in private investment along its corridor.

While in Charlotte, the delegation also met with The Honorable Patrick McCrory, Mayor of the City of Charlotte, and heard a panel discussion about Charlotte's "success story" featuring Debra Campbell, Director of Planning, City of Charlotte; Danny Pleasant, Director, City of Charlotte Department of Transportation; Keith Parker, CEO, Charlotte Area Transit System and Bob Morgan, President, Charlotte Chamber of Commerce.

"The development of an integrated, multi-modal transportation system is essential to the future economic well being of Central Florida and the entire state," said Jacob V. Stuart, President of the Central Florida Partnership. "SunRail is a critical first step for our region, and the Central Florida Partnership is working diligently with other regions in Florida and in Tallahassee to make absolutely sure that this dream becomes a reality for our residents and visitors."

"This has been an exciting time in the history of our region", said Shelley Lauten, President of myregion.org. "In coming months, myregion.org will continue to conduct additional outreach efforts to help educate the community about SunRail and generate an understanding of the positive impact of its anticipated debut in 2011."

The Honorable Carlton D. Henley, Sr. Seminole County Commission 1101 East First Street Sanford, FL 32771

Dear Commissioner Henley,

You're invited . . .

Charlotte and "ride their new train." So you will know, their LYNX Blue Line, part of the Charlotte Area Transit System (CATS), is their first step toward a multi-modal regional transportation system. Our travel date is Wednesday, January 14, 2009; we'll go "up and back" the same day on a "charter aircraft" being provided by AirTran. As you would suspect, space is very limited; so we need to hear from you right away, because we want to make sure your "seat is reserved."

Regional Leadership Mission to Charlotte "Ride Their New Train"

Wednesday, January 14, 2009 9:00 a.m., to 5:00 p.m. Orlando, Florida – Charlotte, North Carolina – Orlando, Florida RSVP Required Using the Enclosed Fast Fax Reservation Form

We're in the process of assembling a "traveling team" from across the Central Florida Region; and our Regional Delegation will be lead by Orlando Mayor Buddy Dyer, Chairman of the Central Florida Commuter Rail Commission. Plus, joining our "traveling team" will be the current class of Leadership Orlando. It's going to be a great trip; traveling together, making new friends and learning about our collective future.

The Central Florida Partnership will take care of the expenses and all of the travel details; we need you "on board" to show your support for Central Florida Commuter Rail. Together, we'll ride the LYNX Blue Line and learn together how it's changing Charlotte "for the good."

The LYNX Blue Line is 9.6 miles long; with 15 stations including seven "Park-and-Ride" locations, the LYNX Blue Line provides a congestion-free commute with consistent travel times. But, the LYNX Blue Line is more than a convenient way to get around Charlotte. In fact, their new rail system has also proven to be an important stimulus to the regional economy.

Private investment along the LYNX Blue Line has topped $1.86 billion. To sharpen this point, you should know that property values along the rail corridor have grown by 52 percent since 2000. With this in mind, James Mathis of Charlotte Center City Partners says his district has experienced this positive economic explosion first-hand. "The LYNX Blue Line has been and will continue to be the driver for the redevelopment of Historic South End. The South End district is welcoming 1,455 new residential apartment units to the neighborhood over the next two years; and I am positive that rail was the catalyst."

Leaders of Charlotte's regional business community have also seen a positive impact on their bottom lines. "We've seen an increase in foot traffic as commuters come in for coffee and breakfast in the morning and end their day by picking up groceries for dinner," said Chuck Richards of Reid's Fine Foods on 7th Street. "We see more customers who ride the light rail Uptown for special events, and Seventh Street Station is a convenient stop for popular attractions and lunch at Reid's."

If you want to see this success story "up close," join us on our Regional Leadership Mission to Charlotte. Your first step? Just return your Fast Fax Reservation Form. Once we hear from you, we'll be back in touch with a detailed agenda and a list of those on the "traveling team."

Questions? Comments? Suggestions? Please give me a call, since I would enjoy talking with you about our upcoming Regional Leadership Mission to Charlotte, scheduled for Wednesday, January 14, 2009.

ery sincerely,

Jacob V. Stuart President and CEO
